

Source Insurance announces the appointment of Malcolm Guest as Managing Director.

Malcolm moves into this new yet familiar position from his former role as Chairman of Source Insurance, bringing extensive knowledge and expertise in the insurance market.

Flourishing in a range of different Sales roles, Malcolm had his first stint as Managing Director of Source Insurance between 2004 and 2011, during which the Source Insurance team built out a fast-growing insurance broking business.

Throughout his career, Malcolm has proved himself a key figurehead within the wider mortgage market after stepping into senior positions at First2Protect, MortgageGym and Red Apple Finance.

Malcolm now returns to Source Insurance as Managing Director at an exciting time for the company as they strengthen their proposition, continue their ongoing technological transformation, and diversify their distribution channels. Malcolm brings expertise and an innovative leadership approach to the role and fundamentally understands the company's heritage, key principles, and core values, making him an excellent choice to guide the next chapter of Source Insurance's ambitious growth plan.

Mal tells us, "I am really looking forward to working with the Source Insurance team once again. The success at Source Insurance is all about the delivery of great work from the whole team. Becoming the Managing Director at Source Insurance again really does feel like coming home. I am sure that the experiences and knowledge gained during the 10 years or so since I left Source Insurance will help me be a better leader and add more value to our business".

Instrumental throughout Source Insurance's history, many staff are accustomed to working closely with Malcolm and are delighted to welcome him back into the business. Likewise, the experienced and dedicated Board of Directors look positively toward the next chapter of his Source Insurance journey as they continue shaping the strategic direction of the business.

Sales Director Carl Oakes added, "We're incredibly thrilled to see Mal move into this pivotal role, bringing all his prior experience and knowledge with him. Source Insurance is very familiar with his skills and presence, so as the Board of Directors, we look forward to working alongside our new MD.

To have someone of Mal's calibre and stature at the company is truly exciting, especially as we continue to evolve our proposition at a time of change across insurance markets. His impact will undoubtedly be felt across all levels of the Source Insurance team."
